

Who is Behind Alien Abduction?

By Dirk Gillabel

www.soul-guidance.com

cosmicktraveler.wordpress.com/

I think we're property. I should say we belong to something: That once upon a time, this earth was No-man's Land, that other worlds explored and colonized here, and fought among themselves for possession, but that now it's owned by something. That something owns this earth, all others warned off.

Charles Fort in Book of the Damned

Contents

Intro

The Controllers

The Greys

The Mantis

The Reptilians

The Tall Whites

Other Extraterrestrial Abductors

The Blue Men

Other Extraterrestrials Races

.....

There are beings in the spiritual realms for whom anxiety and fear emanating from human beings offer welcome food. When humans have no anxiety and fear, then these creatures starve. People not yet sufficiently convinced of this statement could understand it to be meant comparatively only. But for those who are familiar with this phenomenon, it is a reality. If fear and anxiety radiates from people and they break out in panic, then these creatures find welcome nutrition and they become more and more powerful. These beings are hostile towards humanity. Everything that feeds on negative feelings, on anxiety, fear and superstition, despair or doubt, are in reality hostile forces in supersensible worlds, launching cruel attacks on human beings, while they are being fed. Therefore, it is above all necessary to begin with that the person who enters the spiritual world overcomes fear, feelings of helplessness, despair and anxiety. But these are exactly the feelings that belong to contemporary culture and materialism; because it estranges people from the spiritual world, it is especially suited to evoke hopelessness and fear of the unknown in people, thereby calling up the above mentioned hostile forces against them.

Die Erkenntnis der Seele und des Geistes, Rudolf Steiner, 1907

Intro

There seems to be two kinds of beings that abduct humans. The first group I call the Controllers. They consists of the Greys, Mantis, Reptilians and the Tall Blondes. They seem to be in control of this planet. The other group consists of various extraterrestrial races who come here for various reasons: research, taking samples, studying, but some of them also abduct humans. the Controllers consider us as mere livestock to be used for their various programs. They have no empathy towards us. The extraterrestrial races vary greatly. Some are empathetic, some are indifferent, some don't care about our well-being.

The Controllers have been in control of Earth for a long time, so where do they hide out? Abductees have been taken in small flying saucers, but also in larger ships, and even motherships. They have been shown Earth from a distance, thus the motherships must be positioned in our solar system, probably near Earth. Some abductees have been taken underground, in caves or caverns, often called underground alien bases. These seem to be temporary stations. It would also explain that UFOs or flying saucers have been seen flying straight into mountains, or into the ground, taking into account that their ships can go into a higher energy state that allows them to travel through solid matter. There are some reports that the Greys are also on the Moon. That seems to be logical choice if one wants to control a planet. Rumors have it that there is a large control systems in the Moon's underground. The Reptilians are encountered both on the surface and in caves and underground tunnels. They seem to live primarily underground. They claim that they have been on Earth longer than humans. They probably retreated underground because they are few in numbers. Although primitive in their evolution, they do have advanced technology, and spacecraft.

Both the Controllers-group and other extraterrestrials have the ability to make themselves look like humans. Although it is possible that they have some technology that projects a human image around their body, it is clear that they have at least the ability to make us see the way they want (control over the human mind). Most are incapable of speech, although they can hear. They communicate by telepathy, or mind to mind, by thought. By their power of mind manipulation they can make you believe anything.

The Controllers

The Controllers is a term given to a group of three or four races that tightly control Earth and humanity. They are presently called: the Greys (or Grays), the Mantis (or Mantid in England), the Reptilians, and the Tall Whites (sometimes called the Nordic people).

Although the Controllers have advanced technology, they do not seem to be spiritually evolved.

The alien technology, but also their physicality has to be understood in terms of energy, the whole range of frequencies, especially microwaves and light, and even higher energy levels that reach beyond the physical. They use this technology to not only travel around but also to manipulate the human body, brain and mind. They can make abductees believe that they are compassionate and benign, that they are here to help humanity, that abductees have a special mission to fulfill. However, they are very secretive and they will never tell the entire truth.

The Controller-group has absolutely no respect for humans. They are not here to help, but to use and exploit us. They are not here to help us 'ascend', they are working to keep us ignorant, docile and compliant. When somebody resist their abductions, they want to find out why in order to make them compliant too.

They keep humans ignorant of their divine essence, keeping them in a perpetual struggle for survival, by instigating continuous wars. They manipulate our belief systems. Although people have different explanations for the abductions by this group, their purpose for this direct interference is not quite clear. Whatever they are doing for real, they often cloud our consciousness with virtual scenarios projected into our minds, and make us forget certain episodes of an abduction.

The Controllers seem to constantly download memories and knowledge of the abductees, take samples of blood, nails, hair, skin and even flesh, and test our endurance to pain and fear. It seems that they want to understand humans in every way possible, and considering their non-interest in our well-being, they are probably looking for our weaknesses. Some abductees say that the Controllers seem to be working on a plan to establish themselves on the surface of this planet while totally dominating humans.

Abducted people are from all levels of society. That includes people that are the top levels of our governmental institutions. Considering that abductees not always remember their abductions, it is worrying that these high level people are also prone to mind manipulations by these controlling aliens.

It is also said that the Controllers, and other races that are allowed to come here by these Controllers, are harvesting the resources of this planet for trade with other alien races, aside from their own particular interests in both the planet and humanity.

The following is basic information about these four groups of aliens. It is based on people who have had contact with them. The descriptions might not reflect reality, but it gives us an idea of who they are. Take into account that there is a lot of variation in each race of aliens. The information is based on experiences, deductions and opinions. What is more important is what they do to us.

The Greys

Greys are beings that are described as having large heads, pointed chin and big eyes. Arms and legs are skinny. Some have wrinkled or scaly skin. The skin is ash-like grey. If they touch you, you have no energy. Although they are small, they are very strong, and resisting them is futile. They can reach in your soul, or mind, and control you that way.

They usually wear one-piece suits that blend in with the environment, a kind of camouflage. It changes with the environment they are in.

Some sources say that the Greys are actually a type of reptilian beings.

Their circulatory system has no blood but has a green viscous liquid. The fluid within the body was chlorophyll based liquid which apparently dealt with photosynthesis or similar process. They have different internal organs, and something resembling a small heart. They don't have a digestive tract. It is assumed that they absorb nutrients through the skin by bathing in a liquid that has organic materials in it. Excretion might also be through the skin. They don't breathe as they don't have any lungs. The small mouth and nose often reported are not necessary and probably are remains left over from genetic manipulation of their species. They have small holes for ears, so they probably can hear. They don't have genitalia, further evidence that they are actually cloned, or genetically created, without the need of sexual reproduction. The number of fingers vary from three to six, probably because there are many types of Greys. Usually no thumb, sometimes no palm.

It seems that all the Greys have been genetically bred for the task they have to perform.

Some people say that the large, all-black, slanted eyes are actually eye coverings, and that underneath these coverings they have round eyes. One person thinks that these goggles are a kind of data processing computers judging from the sound coming from them. An abductee once knocked out one of these coverings and saw there were flashing red lights inside.

The Greys are the lower, genetically engineered, class of workers for the Reptilians and the Mantis.

There are three main classes of Greys.

- The small size Greys perform the routine work during the abductions. The shorter aliens bring abductees to the UFO, take their clothes off, escort them to the "examination" rooms, and even do some non-specialized procedures. Shorter aliens rarely engage in extended conversation, and what they do communicate is usually limited to palliatives and reassurances for the frightened abductee. This lower class of Greys has no or very little emotions, and they carry out their work often disregarding the emotional or physical pain abductees sometimes endure. It is believed that they do not have a soul, and are a sort of bio-androids.

- The medium size Greys are involved in specific procedures like the so-called mind-scan (probing the mind of the abductee through gazing directly into his eyes), medical procedures, and inserting implants into the abductee's body. This class of Greys is a bit taller.
- The tall Greys supervise the entire abduction and procedures. They have much more emotion and calm down an abductee by projecting a particular emotion into his mind. The tall Greys are often 'felt' to be male or female. They are more friendly, but again, they have to carry out their work and will keep the abductee under strict control. The tall Greys also operate the craft used in the abductions.

The Greys have basically no or little emotions and individuality. They have a collective mind. According to some, this collective mind is of a high order, and peaceful. There are many races with differences among them, but the collective mind is a steady feature among them. This is why they all look alike, and often respond as one. They can read each other's mind, and have no free will.

Greys have very strong psychic abilities. One example of these abilities quite often used is to make you see them in another form, which can be human (in order not to frighten you), or an animal form. They usually look into the eyes of humans in order to control them. During the so-called mind-scan they look into the eyes of an abductee at very close distance (mere inches), by which they can penetrate into the brain's functions (and thus also control bodily functions), and into one's mind. Mind manipulation of the abductee covers retrieval of memories, inducing emotions, and implanting hypnotic commands.

From the study of many abductee reports, it is clear that the Greys abduct (or interfere with) people over their entire lifetime. Most abductees can remember abduction since they were just a couple of years old. Although they are not always able to remember all the abduction events, their lives are profoundly influenced and changed by these repeated abductions, emotionally and psychologically. Most abductees suffer from often undefined post-traumatic stress. Abductions can leave a profound negative influence on one's life.

Over and over again abductees describe the Greys as emotionless and methodical, and seemingly show no sympathy or pity whatsoever toward human suffering or death, but merely look upon it with scientific 'curiosity'.

Some abductees say that the Greys are actually a friendly species, and have a wonderful mind. These people should look into the Stockholm Syndrome, because the Greys lack emotions and empathy, which is the cause of the suffering of the abductees during the abduction. This might also be due to the belief that the lowest class of Greys are actually bio-robots or androids.

Reptilians are often quoted as drawing life force from humans for their own sustenance. What is not that well known is that the Greys have technological apparatus to draw life force from their abductees. Jim Sparks mentions a device that stimulated him sexually, after which the energy was drawn off and stored. This drawing of life force takes a toll on the abductees who are then more easily controlled and their behavior changed.

Credo Mutwa, the Zulu shaman, who was also once abducted, noticed the same thing:

"Because, sir, when I get caught by the Mantindane (=the Greys), you become so traumatized, your life becomes so changed, you become so embarrassed and ashamed of yourself, you develop a self-hatred which you cannot understand, and there are subtle changes in your life which make no sense to you...And, you develop a feeling that your life is no longer your own; and furthermore, you become compelled with a strange edge to move from place to place, to travel. You become worried about the future; you become worried about people...You develop an understanding of space, an understanding of time and creation which makes no sense to you as a human being - it is a state, after your terrible torture, after substances have been removed from you, some kind of exchange takes place where you suddenly know things that the Mantindane would know, which ordinary human beings do not know. "

This has been noted also in the Western world. Abductees, who are abducted a lot, often develop psychic abilities, and feelings and thoughts that are very different from normal humans.

The Greys have a rod-like device that can put you to sleep immediately. They can also prevent a person from moving. Experiencers usually call it paralysis, but actually it is the inability to move, whether standing, sitting or lying down. 'Paralysis' is well-known when the Greys visit a person while he is in bed. However, many people report the inability to move when encountering a UFO, or alien beings, outside, while standing, or sitting in a car.

The Mantis

The Mantis are called this way because they resemble a praying mantis, or grasshopper insect. This does not mean that they evolved from insect beings. It is just a resemblance, because they are skinny with long limbs, and have big eyes. They have a small mouth and can only take in fluids.

Mantis are active both in the physical world as in the etheric/astral realm. On the physical level, they have been seen cloaking themselves, that is, to make themselves translucent, or quasi-transparent, similar to the alien being in the Predator movie.

The Greys get a lot of attention, and the Mantis always are in the background. However the Mantis are more important, because they are not only in control of Earth, but their main objective is the harvesting of negative emotions and thoughts from humans. Hence we hear abductees saying that the (taller) Greys use the so-called Mindscan to extract their memories. In psychedelic experiences, people have seen clearly that the Mantis are strongly parasitic, and use the extracted negative emotions and thoughts as a kind of currency among themselves. It also serves as a source of sustenance or energy to them.

"The entity then initiated telepathic communication with me, explaining that it was quite surprised that I could see it, as this usually didn't occur. It said that it lived by extracting human thought/emotion. Human thoughts were both the currency of its species, as well as their sustenance/energy source. (The needle-like proboscis was looking less friendly by the minute.) I was given the impression that — as the coin of its kind — different types of thought/emotion were valued differently; those with a more intense energy charge, such as fear or love, were worth more." (Erowid)

The Mantis are in charge of all the operations on Earth. They control humanity at large and on the individual level, on the physical and the spiritual level. For this purpose they use the Greys to carry out their instructions.

One abductee gives a detailed description:

"They are the enforcers for the Greys. When a resistor is abducted, they take over and force the human into compliance. They are powerful physically. They have only three digits on their claw-like hands. They have no neck. Their heads set on top of their bodies, and I've seen them swivel their heads three hundred and sixty degrees. They stand about eight feet tall, and they give off a pungent odor."

A Reddit user, experienced with Mantis encounters has this to say:

"The Mantis are often seen wearing a purple cloak, and a medallion. I asked them about it, and they said the medallion is actually a device, and not a status symbol. They consider themselves "neutral" (or at least, they strive about it). The Mantis are the so called spirit guides people experience in-between lives and take care of reincarnations. According to Michael Newton PhD's book Journey of Souls, the spirit guides have a purple aura and wear a medallion. This was written before the Mantis aliens became as known as they are today (and even today, most people only see Greys).

In other words: UFOs are not "people from other planets" perse. I have surmised that the phenomenon is a control AND support system for reincarnation. The planet belongs to them, and we are renting the place while we incarnate here. They are behind social engineering via religion creation, and folk myths. They are driving our evolution via intellectual, social, and of course, genetic methods. Please note, that despite speaking about reincarnation here, I still consider myself an atheist. I don't see reincarnation as a religious thing, but rather, a system that can happen either naturally, or with technology (lately, I lean on the latter).

The Mantis is the most common alien seen on DMT, Ayahuasca, and mushrooms (called "insectoids" in the psychedelic parlor). When I asked a Mantis (not Esther) why it's usually them we bump into in hyperspace, he replied: "We intersect".

Abductions happen mostly in the astral (aka, a fourth spatial dimension where time and consciousness are more interweaving than in 3D). I believe that 100% of humans get "abducted" overtime. Physical abductions are extremely rare, and of the well known genetic kind usually. But the rest of the people are also interacting with aliens, it's just that they don't realize it, because these experiences are masked as dreams. In these interactions, the incarnated person usually undergoes tests, or gets advice from their guides.

In one of my astral "abductions", I was dreaming a normal dream, but a tooth was hurting me in a weird way inside the dream. I managed to wake up inside the dream, only to see a Grey above me drilling. It quickly placed me back to the dream. They basically serve VR experiences while they're doing work on you, in addition to screen memories."

In abductions, the Mantis beings examine abductees only infrequently and most often engage in staring procedures. When they communicate telepathically with humans, their talk is often more substantive and they are sometimes more forthcoming in the information they impart. But generally they stand back, observe the abduction proceedings, and may issue directions to the tall Greys.

Mantis beings can put people through virtual experiences, and cause pain when one refuses. Supposedly, it is for the purpose of tests, but what these tests are for we don't know. Virtual experiences are also used to divert attention away from what they are really doing to the abductee.

The Mantis are able to look into the possible future of humans of interest and see if they pose a threat to their agenda. If so, they will take action to take action against that person. Or they can use these predictions to gain trust.

Joshua Rhinehall (interview by Linda Moulton-Howe) feels that the Mantis are creating hybrids, that is, genetically manipulated human bodies capable of containing souls that are non-human. He says that these non-human souls are not meant to have a physical body, and what the Mantis are doing is not a good thing.

When abductees encounter Mantis, the Mantis give the impression of being kind and loving, of being very ancient and wise. They might be so in regards to the abductee, but they are the ones in control of Earth and manipulate humanity in intrusive ways without its consent. It is a standard practice of the Controllers to project thoughts and ideas into the mind of the abductee for the purpose of control and mind manipulation, and not necessarily the truth. Both Mantis and Greys can impart good feeling into an abductee to make him calm and trusting, and to go along with all the invasive procedures.

The reason why Mantis beings are often portrayed as friendly might lie in the fact that they look slender and fragile. A Reptilian is strong and fierce; he doesn't have to put up a friendly face towards a human.

Psychic Ellie Crystal once was in communication with a Mantis being, and she had this to say about it:

"In the late 1980's and early 1990's, I found myself enmeshed in ufology, working as a licensed hypnotherapist with allegedly alien abductees. During this time, I made a telepathic connection with an entity, a tall gray insectoid looking alien, who said his name was Solux, and came from the other side of the sun. He resembles the description of the praying mantis aliens, allegedly more evolved, very tall and keeper of knowledge. He said he came here from a distant galaxy on the other side of the sun where I was experiencing with him. His energy was powerful, yet compassionate, and all-knowing. I could feel his presence with me as I sat there gazing out at the countryside. Though he seemed harmless, and only spoke of the mission I had here to help consciousness evolve, I never really trusted him. After several conversations, I asked him to leave, and he did."

A person who used a "heroic" doses of Psilocybe mushrooms encountered an insectoid entity, and clearly describes the draining of thoughts and emotions from people (posted on Erodwin website):

"...I then saw an insectoid entity about the size of a small dog, whose back was facing me. It had a long mosquito-like proboscis that I could only partially see. Suddenly, it turned, and--realizing that I saw it--it made a high-pitched buzzing/shrieking sound. (I got the impression that it was sending out a warning alarm.) The entity then initiated telepathic communication with me, explaining that it was quite surprised that I could see it, as this usually didn't occur. It said that it lived by extracting human thought/emotion. Human thoughts were both the currency of its species, as well as their sustenance/energy source. (The needle-like proboscis was looking less friendly by the minute.) I was given the impression that--as the coin of its kind--different types of thought/emotion were valued differently; those with a more intense energy charge, such as fear or love, were worth more. The entity explained that it existed in another dimension so that it could feed off of human thought unhindered. (I got a feeling that the relationship wasn't symbiotic; perhaps these "thought drainers" somehow suck life energy from humans, along with the mental energy.) It claimed that it was the psychic equivalent of an actual insect that feeds on blood, skin, etc., with regard to the extent of any damage it might do to those on whom it fed. Yet I had a nagging feeling that it might not be telling me the whole truth. Maybe these creatures had some influence on inciting wars or disasters in the human realm? The experience left me feeling unsettled for some time afterwards."

A Reddit user who took mushrooms describes that the Mantis are extracting thoughts and memories from us:

"Trying to make sense of these entities I've encountered on trips: So in 2019 I did a 6 gram, eyes-closed trip where I felt like these green mantis-like creatures were sniffing around for painful memories and extracting them. One seemed annoyed that I was aware of it, and was like "Just let me do my job please." They seemed kind of rude and possibly even overworked (?) but probably helpful overall. I didn't have another big trip until this past weekend (3.5g brewed into tea). This time, they were back and more vivid. They wanted to poke around inside me and lead me to painful thoughts and memories. Seemed like they wanted to wring out emotion almost like a liquid... and harvest it. Unlike last time, this time I started to wonder if it wasn't such a symbiotic relationship... were they more parasitic? Nefarious? Using my feelings as some kind of natural resource to mine?"

The famous Terence McKenna once had a mushroom trip, with his wife Kat, during which Kat saw a structure showing up with Mantis beings. :

"...she could see hovering over the house, far larger than the house itself, a structure made out of rods of light in which the shovel-faced mantis-like creatures were there, and she said they felt like hyperdimensional pirates. They were not part of the mushroom. The mushroom she said was appalled that we all had been..., we all had run across some roving bad guys and the mushroom was saying "you know, let's all just hunker down here and be quiet for a few minutes, and these guys will go on." (from YouTube)

The Reptilians

Reptilians claim Earth as their own, and everything on it, including humans, because they were here before humans. Therefore, they could be considered natives to this planet. They have no need for exploration as many extraterrestrials do. They also abduct humans, but to a much lesser extent than the Greys. They can also cause memory loss in the abductees. The treatment they give their abductees is much worse than those of the Greys, and this includes torture. As with the Greys, the Reptilians also have technology with which they control humans in every aspect. According to some people, humans are not only a source of life energy for the Reptilians, but also a food source. Thus, some abducted people do not return. Their claw marks can cause lasting pain for the abductees.

Reptilians are large, about six to eight foot tall. They have three or four fingered claws with webbing. Sometimes external ribbing is visible on their chests and backs. They have smooth to rough appearing lizard-like scales instead of skin, although some have smooth skin. Their skin color is greenish to brownish. They usually have a central ridge on top of their head. Occasionally a Reptilian is seen with red eyes. Their verbal 'language' seems to consist of grunts, whistles and hisses. At least that is what witnesses hear when they encounter them.

The Reptilians are fierce, strong warriors, structured in a military hierarchy. They have an extremely strong body. They are very oriented towards honor and performance, and have pride in what they do. Because they are very muscular, tall, and strong, they don't need to have many weapons. They can strong psychic abilities by which they can control humans.

In relation to humans, Reptilians (in general) are deceptive, cunning, and hideous. They can psychically control humans in a very clandestine way. Although they don't like humans, they use them for harvesting human emotional energy, and genetic hybridization with humans is also going on. They can be friendly while at the same time draining your energy. Some say that there are reptilian groups that are not hostile to humans.

However being experts in psychic manipulation, the negative Reptilians can make themselves appear quite different than what their intentions are. As with Greys and mantis, they can also make you see them physically different, in a different bodily form. A person would initially see a beautiful woman, or perhaps a military person, to find out later during the contact that the image changes into the reptilian real figure. It is our perception of them that they are able to change. Some people take this as a shape shifting ability, but that is not the case. The Reptilian cannot change his bodily form, but can manipulate our mind to see him in a different, usually a human bodily form.

Abductees often have distinct claw-like cuts and bruises on their bodies after their apparent abductions. Perhaps the most frightening and most controversial part of abductions by Reptilians are claims that these creatures occasionally have sex with abductees. Maybe this is a virtual Reality Scenario intended to create strong emotions in their victims to be siphoned off.

There are different races and classes of Reptilians. Some groups have been on Earth for a very long time, probably longer than humanity. They reside in underground caverns. Others are from other places in the universe. Some work together with the Mantis and the Greys.

A separate group are called Dracos or Draconians. Dracos are ten to twelve feet height and their skin appears as gray and mottled. Ken Bakeman has seen several Dracos with white skin, which he refers to as albino Dracos. Dracos, with atrophied wings, seem to be occupying leadership positions. Dracos are from Alpha Draconis, and they are very aggressive.

Something that always pops up when talking about Reptilians is that one of their activities is the siphoning off of human emotional or life energy. Their lives seems to be partially dependent on this activity. In abduction or contact cases, Reptilians have been known to be physically abusive, even raping women. Probably, this is done to generate lots of life energy by the extreme emotional upset.

Credo Mutwa, the Zulu shaman, is of a similar opinion:

"It is said that these creatures (the Imanujela or Reptilians) feed on us human beings; that they, at one time, challenged God Himself to war, because they wanted full control of the universe. And God fought a terrible battle against them and He defeated them, injured them, and forced them to hide in cities underground. They hide in deep cavities underground, because they are always feeling cold. In these cavities, we are told, there are huge fires which are kept going by slaves, human, zombie-like slaves. And, it is further said that these Zuswazi, these Imbulu, or whatever you choose to call them, are not capable of eating solid food. They either eat human blood, or they eat that power, the energy that is generated when human beings, on the surface of the Earth, are fighting and killing each other in large numbers...Because the Imanujela like to inhale the energy that is generated by masses of people being terrified or being killed by other people."

He also says that the Reptilians abduct children which are killed sacrificially. (Bibliotheca Pleyades)

Credo Mutwa tells us that according to the African myths, that the arrival of the Reptilians caused the downfall of humanity:

"These creatures then took away the great powers that human beings had: the power of speaking through the mind only the power of moving objects with their mind only the power of seeing into the future and into their past the power to travel, spiritually, to different worlds All of these great powers the Chitauli (another name for the Reptilians) took away from human beings and they gave human beings a new power, now, the power of speech.

But, human beings found, to their horror, that the power of speech divided human beings, instead of uniting them, because the Chitauli cunningly created different languages, and they caused a great quarrel between people.

Also, the Chitauli did something which has never been done before: they gave human beings people to rule over them, and they said, "These are your kings, these are your chiefs. They have our blood in them. They are our children, and you must listen to these people because they will speak on our behalf. If you don't, we are going punish you very terribly." Before the coming of the Chitauli, before the coming of the Imbulu creatures, human beings were spiritually one.

But when the Chitauli came, human beings became divided, both spiritually as well as by language. And then, human beings were given strange new feelings by the Chitauli. Human beings started to feel unsafe, and so they started making villages with very strong fences of wood around them. Human beings started becoming country makers. In other words, they started creating tribes and tribe lands, which had borders, which they defended against any possible enemy.

Human beings became ambitious and greedy and they wanted to acquire wealth in the form of cattle, and sea shells. And, another thing the Chitauli forced human beings to do, they forced human beings to mine into the Earth. The Chitauli activated human women and made them to discover minerals and metals of certain types. Women discovered copper; women discovered gold; women discovered silver. And, eventually, they were guided by the Chitauli to alloy these metals and to create new metals which had never existed in Nature before, metals such as bronze and brass and others. "

The world of the Reptilians and their relationship towards humans is a complicated thing. Aside from what has been mentioned in the above there is also a non-physical, astral or spiritual aspect to the situation. Reptilians are also very active on the non-physical side of reality, what some call the astral planes, or the spiritual world. They are very knowledgeable about the soul aspects of beings. It has been noted by many healers that Reptilian souls are sometimes attached to human beings, especially if these are spiritually awakened. It is the task of the Reptilian soul to interfere with that person's life so that person cannot manifest his spirituality or spiritual work here on Earth.

It has also been noted that the Reptilian souls are kind of stuck in the astral world, because they have always lived as parasites, living of the life energy of physical beings, humans and other beings. These Reptilians souls do not or cannot evolve further in the spiritual worlds, and need a constant supply of energy that must come from the Earthly physical plane, that is, from the emotions of human beings. For that purpose they have set up a system, both in the astral plane and on the physical plane to keep humanity in a constant state of wars, violence, and other ways of generating negative emotions and fear. In this context they work together with the Mantis and Greys, as they have the same objectives.

In regard to the spiritual control of souls in the astral world, I found a strange comment on the YouTube video The death traps - trailer by The Farsight Institute (people who do remote viewing sessions). The YouTuber, who goes by the name of pneumatonic, had an accidental out-of-the-body-experience during which he encountered the White Light, the alien being associated with it, and what the purpose of the white Light. It is a quite unique, and maybe extreme, experience, and maybe only one of a kind. It shows that a lot of strange things are going on when one enters the astral plane. It is a quite long comment, but worth while to give it here in full:

"I never thought that I would share what I herein disclose given I do not desire to injure anyone with the horrific knowledge of it. Yet it remains clear to me now that someone else has discovered and by a divergent means what I some decades ago did as well. For the historical record, and to corroborate your findings, I add the following, based upon first hand experience, in order to aid whomsoever does read this in assessing the true and occulted nature of what occurs at death. I have lived a life few would call common or typical, having served as an intuitive empath and trained for such since a child. I remain thankful for my past, given what my ability afforded me of understanding of what really occurs from a third-party perspective. Tragically, if this life didn't make a drug fiend of you, the afterlife will -- they dispense narcotic vapors to 'steer' a person which way they want.

I fell asleep at the time of day which would regularly place me into a deep sleep in those years: the hour of sunset. An environmental disturbance caused me to regain consciousness in the most peculiar manner: I began hearing sounds and as I lay there unconscious, I began to FEEL those sounds. Soon, the sound grew and grew in intensity -- both audible and tactile. It sounded like glass smashing into a million bits and pieces, and the feeling was prickly and enervating tingles. Suddenly I was awake and fully conscious, very lucid. Yet here I discovered to my utter confusion something amiss: as I attempted to roll off the bed, I realized that my tactile feedback senses were not giving me the customary signals indicating the bed beneath me, and where and how far to the edge. I felt no tactile feedback, and worse, as I attempted to log roll to discover the edge, I also felt no gravity sense and hence was totally unsure as to what direction therefore was upright. This totally confounded and confused me for a while, and I then resorted to what is my innate type of movement: aquatic. I began breast-stroke swimming and suddenly found myself relatively upright, judging by the walls of the room. Yet I remained all the more confused, as I saw no door I might traverse through as usual. I then discovered upon further examination that I was actually pressed up against the ceiling of the room, and noted the oddity of someone laying in a bed at the bottom of the room. I had no clue that this person was me. Wondering how I got stuck to the ceiling and how I might get down to the door below, I lifted my head upwards, to get a good look at the actual ceiling and to better assess my predicament. I saw the ceiling, and then completely through it, and marveled at the type of panoramic supervision I suddenly possessed, noting the setting sun on the horizon beyond the building I in which I remained inside.

That is when I spotted the light, curious at the sight of it, as it arced its way into our world, intuitively sensing that it sought my location, marveling at the oddness of also having acquired the ability to see some extra dimension in addition to the usual 3-D. As I felt that, it changed its course and I watched the light like an arc-shaped tube bend its way into our reality towards me. What I mean is that I saw in 4 dimensions, and the additional one is an overlay which defies the customary 3-D we see in geometric ways which hurt my head to behold at first. The extra dimension seemed to somehow invalidate the usual vision of 3D because it interpenetrated things, making our notion of an object having a solid and definitive form rather childish. It is like suddenly everything you looked at no longer had the customary form, given I could see an extra dimension somehow violated 3D physics, and this was noticeable visually. My hyper-panoramic vision in 4D had an incredible range and I noticed that if I looked at something for a few moments I would then see through that thing. I looked through the buildings around mine and saw the people living in apartments there.

Then suddenly my super vision was gone, as the light had arrived at my physical location it rendered me completely F***** BLIND, so intense was the blinding light that it hurt me, and I could feel the invasiveness of it, instinctively crumpling into a defensive posture to protect myself from what I recognized to be a bonafide attack upon my senses and sovereignty of being. That is when the euphoria hit me and F***, WHAT AN INCOMPARABLE F***** HIGH IT IS. Drugs ain't nothing' compared to the high I felt. I forgot about being attacked by the light, and as I slowly unsquinted my closed eyes and peeked them open I noticed that the intensity of the light had subsided to a tolerable level of too-very-f***ing bright. Without any indication as to why, the light began to slowly retract itself up and away from me, and with it the feeling of euphoria. This had one effect: like a senseless drug fiend in need of another fix I yelled WAIT! and propelled myself with swim strokes upwards out through the roof of the building, and was on the roof when the light began to turn sideways, affording me a view of the hidden cage and operator attached to it.

I went from drug-fiend-junkie-willing-to die right then and there to get more of that euphoria to 1000 percent completely sober and f*** the euphoria, get me the F*** away from this evil lizard who wanted to kill me, if it could have gotten away with it, so much was the antipathy and unequivocal HATRED for me. In the initial phase of confusion and shock I wanted to understand the cause of why this being LOATHED me, so that is when all of that formal training in my youth kicked in again and I did what I do habitually: I empathically connected to the being, given that the channel linking us had been established by its hatred of me. Every channel is a two-way road, and I did what I do best and was trained for in my youth.

Searching for some cause of my unrecognized offense, I quickly learned the truth of it -- that this lizard knew nothing of me personally and that I had done nothing which had injured or harmed it as an individual. This was, instead, one of many light-tube operators who await human deaths to then intercept the normal and natural post-death process by removing a person from the earth and onto the moon torture and labor camp through the vacuum tube of light it operated. I understood that there are many such machines, operated by a whole host of two-legged lizards with wings -- I would many years later learn that these are Draco reptilians exactly. The closest equivalent internal representation I had to what this lizard did as a profession was like a taxi cab operator, dispatched by central command where the real-time list of the newly dead is compiled and collected. I then understood that from the lizards perspective, I turned out to be a false positive. I understood that this was not discernable until the machinery of the light tube was in close proximity to me. This lizard was dispatched to recycle me, yet went back empty handed, no prize for the effort. AND THIS IS WHY IT WAS SO F***** ANGRY AND PISSED OFF THAT IT VIOLATED PROTOCOL IN ORDER TO LET ME KNOW, PEON HUMAN THAT I AM, THAT I WAS LUCKY THAT IT WAS NOT ALLOWED TO HARM ME, BECAUSE IT WOULD HAVE SO HAPPILY JUMPED OUT OF THE CAGE AND KILLED ME WITH GLEE IT HATED ME THAT MUCH. If you can imagine someone do the breast-stroke to propel themselves backwards with every ounce of might and fibre of their being -- that was me, and as I flew down back into the bedroom while still looking upwards in horror, expecting combat at any moment I suddenly SLAMMED BACK INTO MY BODY WITH SUCH FORCE.

My heart was beating so hard and fast yet no matter, I jumped out of bed, out the door, yelling something in the process, and I kept on running, out the building and down the street and did not stop until I could run no more. There I collapsed on the front lawn of an apartment building some blocks away. Frantically panting, terrified at what I had just experienced. Then suddenly, as the lawn sprinklers turned on, I sat up, now the object of ridicule for my Korean American neighbors, and stumbled my way back home, trembling from being wet, cold, exhausted, and SCARED.

What I experienced -- minus the reptile revealing the deception of it all -- was the commencement of the post-mortem experience EVERYONE will encounter. There was nothing special singling me out for special treatment -- I was just one of many people dying at that moment on planet earth. Yet I was not dead, but having an out-of-body experience. Yet given limitations inherent to the matrix system, false positives can not be identified until the machinery and sensors onboard the light-tube are in close proximity to the target individual. That operator was dispatched uniquely for me, not just anyone dying in the vicinity. These details prove important to our victory, as they highlight exploitable and hackable shortcomings of the system used to abuse us all. Find in it what you will, make believe any meaning or distortion of fact that you wish, or even think that it never happened and is not real. Yet this was my experience, and I know only the truth of it. In closing, I suspect that part of the energy-matrix grid which imprisons us here -- and possibly the source of the electricity they torture and zap the memories out of a person with in the afterlife -- are the pyramids found all over the world. With a full-moon at lunar noon over head, the electrostatic charge is at its greatest. Removing the metallic capstone might possibly disconnect the charge generation. What fools we have been hitherto. It's high time now that we all win, break the prison, f***up royal the slave masters. None would argue with the truth of this: payback is a BITCH."

The Tall Whites

There are some reports of tall human-like beings inside a spacecraft who seem to work together with the Greys. They have very white skin, often white hair, and look very thin and frail. They have two-piece silver uniforms that glistens in the moonlight, and they wear boots. White suits and helmets are also reported. As with the Greys, their uniform changes to match with the environment. They are taller than humans, and sometimes estimated to be twice as tall. A person who was taken by Tall Whites, said that when she touched the suits, it gave a painful sensation of being stuck with thousands of needles. They are also engaged in abductions themselves. When during an abduction by the Greys, the abductee feel pain, a Tall Blond may appear to lay his hands on the abductee and remove the pain.

They often come out of a large cylinder-type craft, often described as similar to a propane tank. Reptilians have also been seen coming out of such a ship.

These beings can suddenly appear and disappear (when outside their craft). They are usually not benevolent towards humans. There are also tall white humanoids with red eyes. They seem to be emotionless.

In ufology circles the Tall Whites, or sometimes called the Nordics, have gained a foothold based on two dubious sources: Charles Hall and Billie Meier. However their information is not reliable.

Other Extraterrestrial Abductors

The Blue Men

Ardy Sixkiller Clarke in her book Space Age Indians devotes a chapter to a specific race of extraterrestrials she calls The Blue Men. The author collects first-hand stories from indigenous people in the Americas, and in this book from North-American Indians. The Blue Men were primarily encountered in the war zones of Vietnam. These are unusual cases because they are not related to the usual abductions we hear about performed by the Greys, Mantis or Reptilians.

Abductions is not the right term here, as we find ourselves here in a kind of gray zone. The Blue Men encountered say they once were physical beings living on another planet, but a section of their population have learned to transform themselves into light beings in order to solve an overpopulation problem. In the mean time they have colonized one other planet.

The blue beings encountered in our war zones, are those (transformed) light beings who collect the bodies of soldiers who just died in battles. They said they will give them another, and better life on another planet, where they will not remember the horrors of the war they went through. No other explanation is given. So we assume that they have the ability to heal the wounds of the dead soldiers and bring them back to life. But then, at least in my mind, some important questions remain. If the revived soldiers want to go back to their families, and do not want to go to another planet, then they have no choice but to follow the Blue Men intentions. This would be equal to a forced abduction. Isn't it a violation of our free will? The Blue Men also didn't mention what the conditions of that planet is like. Will the abducted soldiers be able to live a free life, or would they be used as slave labor? What are the living conditions: desert, jungle, dangerous animals, microbial life, etc.? By the way, if they are able to move their own people to another planet, why do they need humans for? You don't travel the galaxy all the way to Earth to pick up humans if you don't get something in return for it.

One soldier (the only one who survived the firefight), who saw the Blue Men take the bodies, was asked if he wanted to come with them. Although the Blue Men exude a strong, warm and loving feeling, he declined. He said that the soldiers who disappeared were listed as Missing-In-Action.

Imagine, if you are walking along a street, and a fancy car stops, and the nice looking driver asks you if you want to hop in and he will drive you another, nicer country. Would you just leave your life behind to go with a stranger to an unknown country?

From the encounters, it is clear that they might be very evolved, powerful, and even benevolent, but I would question their actions of taking people of this planet, against their will, or trying to convince them to go with them in an instant while not providing information about what their new lives would be.

Anyway, they appear as a light blue light, after which they transform themselves into a physical body resembling that of their species, seven to eight feet tall, with a light blue skin and very muscular. Their faces are difficult to make out because the shimmering blue light that emanated from them. In some cases they protected American soldiers from Vietcong fire, and make pain (from wounds) disappear. They exude a presence of peace and love. They are compassionate but don't seem to have emotions.

Another veteran who had met the Blue Men in Vietnam, saw one of them again in the USA, when he was entering a forbidden military zone, and was warned by a Blue Men that he was in danger and had to leave.

One nurse said that almost all the soldiers in her ward were familiar with the Blue Men. None of them reported this to their superiors for the obvious reasons. So the Blue Men seem to have been really busy.

Another soldier was taken into their ship and healed, and then put back on the surface.

One soldier explored a cave in Vietnam and came upon a larger cave area with a flying saucer and a Blue Man. After a friendly conversation, he was taken for a ride into space to see earth from a distance, and then put back on Earth.

Another strange story is of a soldier who as a 'tunnel rat' was exploring a Vietcong tunnel complex, where he and his fellow soldier found a different kind of (stone) tunnel that led to a room that was lighted by unknown means. Two large Reptilians showed up who spewed a poisonous liquid upon them, and left. The men lost consciousness soon after. When he regained consciousness they were outside that stone tunnel and a glowing blue men was hovering over them. He apparently had taken them out of the stone tunnel in order to save them from the reptilian beings when they would come back at a later time when the poison would have finally killed the soldiers.

In another case the Blue Men shielded the soldiers from Vietcong fire, by enveloping them in a blue light. There are other stories of Blue men protecting and healing people who were attacked or hurt (in the USA). Often their lives change for the better after the encounter, for example increased mental abilities. So, they Blue Men seem to be very benevolent, but maybe they lost something in their spiritual transformation, as they take people and alter their memories.

Other Extraterrestrial Races

In Ardy Sixkiller Clarke's books, which details many accounts of indigenous people of the Americas, there are accounts of other human-like or humanoid beings who abduct humans for other reasons than those mentioned in the above.

In one case two teenage girls were taken aboard a craft but released because they were too young. The ET's were looking for 'breeders', and the girls were too young to be good breeders.

Some ETs are doctors and researchers who travel the universe collecting items for study, and are interested in how humans are living. This can include abductions of people. Some abductees report that they saw other people onboard who were all in a trance and unresponsive. Some of them are never returned. These kinds of ETs usually have no emotions and humans regarded as an inferior species.